

URGES BIG CHANGE IN LEGISLATURE

Chief Clerk Wylie of Senate Says Present Law-making System Is Relic of Mediaeval Thought

HE WOULD HAVE BUT ONE HOUSE

Suggests Nine to Fifteen Members to Be in Session Continuously
for Long Term

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 7.—(Special.)—The legislature as at present constituted should be abolished.
In its place should be a one house body of from nine to fifteen members elected for comparatively long terms. This reform cannot safely precede, but should immediately follow the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall. Until the legislature is so constituted, law-making will continue to be a combination of fortune and misfortune, and not the scientific process the problems of modern industry and civilization require.

This statement was made today by Senate Chief Clerk F. M. Wylie, in discussing the length of this session of the legislature and the many reg-islative mishaps that have marked its course. Mr. Wylie has been a clerk of the senate for five successive sessions, being chief clerk during the last two. He also was in Washington during two sessions of congress, as secretary to Congressman J. M. Nelson.

System Mediaeval

"Our legislative system is fundamentally wrong," continued Mr.
Wylie. "It was evolved out of the conditions and thought of the middle ages. It was a great forward step at that time, for it wrought more general substantial justice than the Divine Right of Kings, but its inadequacies may be traced from the time of its origin, and with greater clearness as history nears our own time. It is entirely unable to deal competently with the stupe-dous industrial and other problems that face modern civilization.

"Having for five sessions observed the innermost details of our cumbersome legislative machinery in this state, and having during the same time observed at first hand the same unwieldy machinery on a larger scale in Washington, I have had a growing impression of what would be ludicrous if it were not fraught with such enormous consequence, in the attempts of modern scientific thought and method to work with this amateur law-making device.

"The device in this country had a singleness of purpose—to represent the people and the states. As problems of legislation have grown in size and complications, the increasing membership due to the growth of the country has made less adequate the legislative tool of representative government, so that with the requirements steadily increasing, and its competency steadily decreasing, the hopelessness of the system itself is becoming more and more evident.

"During five sessions of the Wisconsin legislature, I have sat day after day and seen members groping in the dark on vital involved questions that they were compelled to determine in a few moments. Day after day, I have seen the houses of the legislature solemnly pass acts that a schoolboy could pick to pieces.
Time after time, I have seen bills pass upon an explanation by a single member that fifteen minutes investigation would show to be erroneous, for the sole reason that the system did not afford to each member the fifteen minutes on each bill.
Time after time, I have seen legislation admittedly bad pass, or legislation admittedly good, fail, through the forces that play upon a body so constituted and organized, or by reason of its sheer cumbersomeness.

Individuals Blamed

"As in everything else, of course, individuals and parties are held responsible for the consequences of the system. But the most thoroughly able men in the nation have sat in the legislatures and the congress, and they have accomplished such wonderful results in spite of the im-possibilities of the system, that it gives rise to regretful conjecture as to what they might have accomplished with an adequate and scientific legislative organization with which to work.

"When the initiative, referendum and recall shall be facts, such an organization may be provided.
These levers of direct control in the hands of the people are more direct and more effective powers than the small district, short term, and double house safeguards that are the main structure of our present legislative system. With the initiative, referendum and recall, a large district, long term body, will be safer than our present legislative body even from a representative point of view. With these the people will have continuous control of the representative's position, continuous power of direct legislation, and continuous power of direct legislation. The present great causes of legislative inefficiency may be abolished.

DISTURBED OVER MEXICAN AFFAIR

Senator Bacon Gravely
Tells Senate Situation
Is of "Utmost Gravity"

ASKS SUPPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

Declares that Partisan Differences Should Be Forgotten During the Period of Stress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A plea that partisan politics be eliminated in the "situation of utmost gravity" which the United Press faces with regard to Mexico, was made in the senate debate this afternoon by Chairman Bacon of the foreign relations committee. He pleaded that the senate handle the subject carefully and that the president be given every opportunity to make a peaceful settlement of the crisis.

The debate was precipitated by refusal of Senator Clark to consent that his demand for a senate inquiry into Mexican affairs be referred to the foreign relations committee. The Wyoming senator taunted the democratic majority with having no policy with regard to Mexico. He insisted that had facts denied by the state department been made public, American lives and property in Mexico would have been saved.

"It has come to the point that in Mexico no man is so poor as the man who owes allegiance to the American flag," he declared. "We should have the facts, too long withheld."

Of Utmost Gravity

"This is a matter of the utmost gravity," solemnly answered Chairman Bacon of the committee.
"There is nothing beyond that word 'utmost.' I speak advisedly when I say then that the public well demands that this matter of the utmost importance be handled carefully.

"I believe that within less than a week the senators will be in a position to discuss this whole problem openly. It is enough to say that the present purpose is to bring about the best results by peaceful methods.

"The president, speaking through the secretary of state, has formulated a plan and he is about to execute
it. It is a situation of extreme difficulty, but every chance, however small, should have every aid to make it a success."

"I appeal to the senators of the other side to answer," he demanded, "whether they want to flaunt in the face of the president by means of their resolution, your lack of faith in what he is undertaking. Can you deny that your action would be so construed?"

Can See No Disrespect

Senator Norris, stipulating that he wished to help the president in the matter, said he could see no disrespect to the president in this resolution.

"The Cuban affair was a mere tempest in a teapot," answered Bacon, "as compared with the gravity of the undertaking to restore and maintain peace in Mexico. Disrespect is a trivial matter."

LOVER SHOTS GIRL

RUNNELS, Iowa, Aug. 7.—Miss Ethel Mell, 18, is today recovering from a bullet wound in her head fired by her lover, Henry Shannon, 22, son of John Shannon, a blacksmith. Young Shannon is in jail at Des Moines but maintains that the shooting was accidental. The shooting occurred last night and Miss Mell says it was accidental, and pleads with her nurses to send for Shannon, who, she says, still has her love.

JAPS CORDIAL TO GUTHRIE

TOKIO, Aug. 7.—Riding in an imperial coach and escorted by a regiment of cavalry, George W.
Guthrie, the new United States ambassador to Japan, today was conveyed to the palace and was received by Emperor Yoshito. Pedestrians along the route of the cavalcade removed their hats as the ambassador passed, and in every way his reception was a cordial one.

U. S. LIBELS TUG.

States marshals this afternoon libelled the new Eric tugboat Frederick U. Robbins at Manitowish because of $10,000 damage done to the federal concrete plant near the breakwater here, when the tug crashed into it Monday. The disaster occurred on the trial trip of the tug.

THOUSANDS STRUGGLE FOR VIEW OF PERRY'S FLAGSHIP AT MILWAUKEE

The Rebuilt Niagara and Original Perry Flag.

Forming an important part of the exhibition was the old battle flag, the property of the United States government, which is kept at the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, Md.

The flag is about nine feet square and of closely woven dark blue muslin. The letters of the white muslin are 13 inches in length and nine inches wide.

The flag is faded and yellowed by age. The words it bears, "Don't Give Up the Ship" were the orders of the famous Capt. Lawrence to his men after he had been mortally wounded on the deck of the frigate Chesapeake in the engagement with the British ship Shannon on June 1, 1813.

Thousands of children took part in the Perry centennial celebration today when they gathered in the public parks and under instructors participated in flag drills and in singing patriotic songs. Folk dances and a flag parade concluded the afternoon celebration. The centennial festivities will formally close tonight with a fireworks display on the lake front.

The Mistress of the ocean, John,
You could not rule the lakes.
You had some ganders in your fleet,
But John you had no drakes.
Your choicest spirits, too were there,
You took your hock and sherry.
But John you could not stand our fare
You could not take our Perry.
—Old Song.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 7.— Thousands of persons aroused by the advance information of the Perry centennial celebration and especially that information concerning the "Niagara," visited the old battle-

FAMOUS BRITISH AIRMAN KILLED

Colonel S. F. Cody and Passenger Drop 200 Feet to Death at Aldershot

AVIATOR BORN IN AMERICA

Two Sons See Father Fall when the Wings of the Machine Buckle
Up

ALDRESHOT, England, Aug. 7.— Col. S. F. Cody, one of the best known aviators in England and a passenger named Evans were killed today when Cody's monoplane turned turtle near here and buried both men under it when it crashed to earth.

Falls 200 Feet

Cody's monoplane fell from a height of 200 feet and was so broken up that it was impossible to tell what caused the accident. Aviators who saw the accident, said that it appeared that some mechanical defect, rather than a contrary air current,
caused the machine to turn over.

Col. Cody was one of the pioneer birdmen of England, and experimented with air craft for several years before aviation was generally taken up there.

For a time he held the world's record for across country flying, which he established in September, 1909, at Aldershot. Most of his flying in the last four years has been done near the scene of his death.

Some See Fall

In June 1910, Cody was seriously hurt by a fall, and he had many minor accidents. Cody's two sons, Lor, and Frank, were among the spectators who saw the aviator and his passenger fall. Cody's neck was broken. The watchers saw the wings of the monoplane suddenly double up. The machine at once buckled and fell into a group of trees.

TOO OLD—GASHES THROAT

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 7.—"I'm an old man."
That was the only reason that Joseph Miller, 72, gave the police today when they found him in an alley with a deep gash in his throat.
At the Emergency hospital Miller declared that he had no friends and that he was too old to get work as an engineer, his trade. He may recover.

APPROPRIATE BIG SUM FOR ROADS

County Board Gives $6,700 for Repairing and Improvement of Road
Through Onalaska

The county board yesterday afternoon voted $6,700 for the improvement of the highway leading through the city to Onalaska. The road runs north and south and that portion through the city is in a deplorable condition. The work will be started soon.

The board declined to change the boundary line between the towns of Campbell and Onalaska after speeches had been made on the matter by several members.

The petition of the Social-Democratic party that the circuit court room be thrown open for public meetings was refused to the new state law which strictly specifies that all such meetings shall be of non-partisan and non-sectarian nature.

Following discussion of the Black River bridge a committee was appointed to confer with a committee of representing the city council on the matter. The committee will attempt to agree upon an equal division of the cost of a new structure and will report at the next meeting of the county board. September 10 is the date set for the next board meeting.

A resolution for a special committee to prepare an itemized report of highway repair fund expenditures was passed. W. D. Sandman, W. E.
Barber and George Baum constitute the committee.

MEARS FOUR-FIFTHS OF SECOND BEHIND SCHEDULED FINISH

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—John Henry Mears, record smashing traveler, today holds the round of the world record. When he reached the office of the New York Sun at 10:10 o'clock today, he had encircled the globe in 35 days, 21 hours, 35 minutes and four-fifths of a second, his exact time being only that fraction of a second slower than the schedule he mapped out when he started on his trip.
Mears, in making the new record, beat Andre Jager-Schmidt, who set the best previous mark of by three days, 22 hours, seven minutes and 37 seconds.

AGREE ON TERMS OF BALKAN PEACE

Affix Signatures to Preliminary Treaty

BULGARIA HAS LOST MUCH

But Little Larger Now Despite Waste of Thousands of Lives and Millions in Cash

BUCHAREST, Aug. 7.—The Balkan peace delegates, representing Bulgaria, Servia, Greece, Montenegro and Roumania, gathered today to affix their signatures to the preliminary treaty of peace, the terms of which were finally agreed to last night. It was expected that the conference would adjourn before night and that the Bulgarians would be on their way to retake Adrianople from the Turks.

By the terms agreed upon by Bulgaria, after losing countless thousands of men and millions of dollars, is but little larger than she was when she declared war against Turkey.
The territory wrested from Turkey by the Bulgarians in the first war which the new frontier cuts off, is to be divided among Servia, Greece and Roumania.

The final peace agreement was brought about only through the possitive stand taken by Roumania. Up to yesterday Bulgaria resisted the demands of the allies, but when Rou-mania threatened to station troops in Sofia by Saturday if Bulgaria failed to yield, Czar Ferdinand's envoys gave in.

BACK FROM ST. PAUL

Mayor Ori J. Sorensen returned this morning from St. Paul where he transacted business.
F. A. Geiger, Milwaukee, federal judge for the eastern district of Wisconsin, stopped in La Crosse today on his way to Cassville to visit his parents. Judge Geiger was a classmate of Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris, La Crosse.

James Thompson, Percy Bentley and E. H. Olson have returned from an auto trip to the Twin Cities.
They stopped at Ellsworth, Wis., and visited George Thompson, brother of the La Crosse attorney.
The trip was made in Mr. Thompson's car.

ENGINEER DROWNS WHEN LAUNCH TIPS

Charles Butsch Thrown Overboard in Dark on Black River Last Night

HIS BODY DID NOT REAPPEAR

Motorboat Cruises About Spot in Vain Attempt to Pick Up the Victim

Charles Butsch, 610 Gould street, age 35, a well known Milwaukee railroad engineer was drowned at 8:30 last night in Black River near the foot of St. Paul street, when the motor boat in which he and five other men were riding almost tipped over.
Butsch was thrown out and was not seen again until his body was recovered this morning at 4:30. The boat was the property of Charles Butrum and W. N. Calvin. Larry Scurry, Frank Stifter and John Mc-Guire were also in the boat. Butsch's death brings the total number of drownings this summer in La Crosse to seven.

Bring Pulmotor

The news of the accident was telephoned to police headquarters, and the department automobile with Chief of Police John Webber and several patrolmen was rushed to the scene, with the pulmotor, to revive the man should he be found in time.
Within thirty minutes after the news of the accident spread fully one hundred people were out on the river with every sort of contrivance available in the endeavor to recover the body, but all to no avail until 4:30 this morning when John Rohrer and Ori Dansberg found the body near where it had sunk. It was lying against the base of one of the barrel buoys which are used as markers for motor boats in the river.

Butsch and his companions walked to the river early in the evening to inspect a boat which Butsch intended to buy. Their plans were changed when they found that the boat could not be seen, and they were invited to take a ride in a boat belonging to two members of the party.

They had intended to take a short trip up Black River. After leaving the dock and traveling a few yards the engine was found to be defective and after tinkering with it for over an hour, the party turned back.
In a few minutes after they landed the engine was again in running order and they started up the river.
Their boat was headed out in the river in order to get in the channel.

Turn Throws Him Out

As they rounded one of the barrel buoys a quick turn was necessary. As they made the turn Butsch left his seat and was in the act of sitting down again when the boat suddenly tipped.

A member of the party made a grab for Butsch as he went under the water. As it was growing dark members of the party can not say whether Butsch came to the surface or not, but one of them is sure that he heard a loud call for help come to them from a distance. Butsch's companions had little fear for a few minutes of his not being able to reach the shore, as he was an expert swimmer. The boat was run around the spot where Butsch went down for several minutes before the party would give up but nothing more was seen of him. It is thought that cramps of the limbs overcame him and he was unable to swim.

During the winter Engineer Butsch was in a serious railroad accident at Fall River when the engine and two mail coaches of his train went in a ditch, following a washout. Butsch was firing passenger train No. 56 as he had just been made an engineer prior to the accident, and at that time of the year the freight trains on the road were few. It was thought for a time arter the accident that he would not recover. He has been suffering since, and has been at work only a few times.

Body Doubled Up

When the body was found by Rohrer and Dansberg it was doubled up, as if cramps had rendered him helpless. It is thought that possibly he did not come to the surface of the water more than once after going down. His body was immediately taken to the Dwyer undertaking rooms.

Butsch is survived by his mother, two sisters, Miss Elizabeth Butsen and Mrs. A. Holquist, both of this city, and a brother, Louis Butsch, of this city. The young man was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and a member of the Knights of Pythias.

The funeral services will be held from the residence at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. Interment will be made in Oak Grove cemetery.

U. S. TO PUNISH ATTACK ON LIND

Assault on President's Representative Will Cause Intervention with Army

THERE IS DANGER OF VIOLENCE

Regarded as Very Possible that Mexicans May Offer Insults to Mediator

(By John Edwin Nevill, staff correspondent of the United Press.) WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Should the Huerta government take the position that former Governor John Lind, now steaming toward Vera Cruz on the battleship New Hampshire to act as the personal representative of President Wilson, is persona non grata and refuse to consider any suggestions he may make, it will not of itself mean armed intervention by the United States. That was made emphatically plain by administration officials today.

Would Raise Arms Embargo

Should that be the Huerta position it is extremely probable that the embargo on the insurgents importing arms from this side of the border will be immediately raised.
The majority of the members of the senate are already in favor of such action.

So far as the so-called official declaration of the Huerta government that Lind will not be received in Mexico City unless he recognizes the defacto regime is concerned, it is not taken very seriously by either President Wilson or Secretary of State Bryan. They refused today to comment on the report. Instead it was decided by them that until Governor Lind reports in person just what reception he receives in Mexico City, where he is due to arrive on Saturday, the administration will assume that no obstacle will be placed in his way.

Fear Result of Violence

There is, however, one very grave danger at the present moment. That is that personal insults and even violence might be offered to Lind.
Should that happen there would be measures adopted immediately of the sternest character. Lind is the personal representative of the president of the United States.

An assault on Lind, and it is entirely within the bounds of possibility that one may be attempted, would be a fire-brand that would force the hands of the administration and force punishment with all of the armed force of this government. But it is hoped here that Huerta and his advisers realize this and will act accordingly.

Lind Reaches Galveston

GALVESTON, Tex., Aug. 7.—Ex-Governor John Lind and wife reached Galveston early today on a special interurban train from Houston, after being several hours delayed on account of a slight wreck in which three sleepers were derailed on the Texas Sunset Central line at Nomet.
The president's special representative immediately boarded the battleship New Hampshire, which sailed for Vera Cruz at one o'clock.

THE TRIBUNE'S

Daily

Short Story

Custodian of the Keys

By CATHERINE COOPE. Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Everly was an architect. Had it not been for a most decided lack of concentration he might have been a great architect—one from whom the world would hear.

"If you could ever get down to business," friends, family and even clients had often said, "you could make us one or two monuments for the architectural world to gaze upon for generations."

Sometimes Everly scowled and sometimes he smiled whimsically at this very apparent lack in his mental equipment. Mostly, however, he went his way trying at odd moments to force himself to concentrate upon the big schemes that rumbled ominously about within the unsettled realms of his brain.

This state of turbulence made him restless because he knew that he was possessed of splendid ideas, yet try as he might he invariably let slip the golden moments that would have gone to perfecting architectural gems.

"Your lack of concentration will fill you among the failures," his sister had said only recently when he had fallen through utter negligence to fill a splendid contract. "If you would lock yourself in your studio sometimes and throw the key away you could possibly be compelled to work out of sheer desperation."

Afterward Everly remembered that the expression in his sister's eyes had hurt him. It came to him with sudden, unpleasant force that he was already slipping into the class of failures, in the eyes of his family.

"I will stay in my room tonight and work if I have to lock the door and give Sis the keys," he muttered, with a glow of determination in his eyes.

But when evening came Everly was consumed by a desire to be out. He went to his room fully convinced that he would stay there and work out the plans for a great municipal building. He was one of many competitors for the contract, and he realized that with concentration he could easily win out.

When he had turned the key in the lock of his door Everly bravely threw the key to his sister, who smiled to herself as her brother's voice admonished her to keep well within hearing.

"If I find I cannot possibly work it will be only by wasting time to remain in here," he told her.

When Ethel's soft laugh sounded from the far end of the hall Everly turned toward his architectural tools and began desultory drawings and measurements. Try as he might his mind flitted about, never stopping for a consecutive five minutes.

Visions of the club, good stories and theaters, dances and mild flirtations danced in his mind and cast municipal buildings roughly aside.

Everly tried conscientiously to bring his thoughts back, but after supreme efforts gave it up as futile. He flung his tools aside and forgetting that he had locked the door attempted to open it. He whistled loudly to his sister. Later he rattled the handle, but no sound of coming footsteps greeted his growing irritation.

He sank back in his chair and waited. Perhaps the family had all gone out for a moment. He listened intently and tried to evolve some way of getting out of his self-imposed imprisonment, but there seemed to be no immediate release unless he disturbed the entire community. Everly laughed grimly. It looked as if he would be compelled to occupy his mind in work. There was no other salvation for the present.

Plans, big plans, rushed maddeningly in, then out, of his brain, then gradually Everly realized that soft feminine laughter was drifting in among them. He jumped up suddenly and whistled again for his sister.

The laughter, now drawing closer, was vaguely familiar to Everly, and when a bewitching and roguish head appeared over the transom he caught a swift breath.

"Enid! Have you dropped from the skies? When did you get here? Let me out quick!" Everly smiled as she smiled for few women. He had loved Enid long but vainly.

"I have not dropped from the skies, but from an ocean liner; and I am going to visit Ethel for two whole weeks." She laughed quickly.

and there was a look of determination in her eyes that Everly had not seen before. "I am so glad you have decided really to work, Dick. You know it is all that will ever get you anywhere. You need not mind me—I am only too glad to hear of your resolution."

"But I want to get out now," cried Everly, for Enid's sunny head was disappearing from the transom. "I cannot work tonight."

The appeal in his voice went swiftly to his sister's heart and she would have fallen before it had Enid permitted her.

"Ethel, you promised me," Enid said swiftly. "It would be the same night after night if you let him out. Give me the key. I will be responsible." Everly heard the girl laugh roguishly. "You have scarcely any more determination than your brother," she added.

Everly felt the hot blood scorch his cheeks. So! Lack of determination was also a fault of his. His teeth came together with a click. Had the situation been less humorous Everly might have been highly angered.

"So I am to be kept a prisoner?" he called out.

It was Enid's cool voice that answered him. "You are going to be left in there until you have completed some plans for that municipal building that Ethel says will give you fame and fortune. I will bring you excellent meals and anything you ask for—except a key to your door."

"A key to your heart would please me more," Everly muttered almost under his breath.

"Well, you never can tell what will be opened for you once you accomplish something worth while," Enid's frank voice answered.

After that Everly heard the dimming voices of the two girls. Ethel's was pleading for her brother's release and Enid's was firmly adamant.

He left Portland on March 4 and expects to reach his destination toward the end of the year.

ASKS CHARITY FOR LARRY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Manager Callahan of the Chicago White Sox, today asked pardon of the country to suspend judgment on Larry Chappell, his $18,000 beauty until the recruit outfielder has had more opportunity to display his worth.

"It is unfair for the baseball critics to condemn Chappell so early in the game," said Callahan. "No wise baseball critic will do it. He has made good to date and will improve."

People are constantly urged not to speak disrespectfully about the dead, but no one seems to care how much gossip is spread about the living.

They soon brought relief and I used them until well. In October, 1908, I gave a public endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills and at this time I am pleased to confirm all I then said."

Men, women and adjectives.

Certain adjectives are reserved for men and others for women. A man is never called "beautiful." Along with "pretty" and "lovely" that adjective has become the property of women and children alone. "Handsome" and the weak "good looking" are the only two adjectives of the kind common to either sex. Even "belie" has no real masculine correlative in English, since "beau" came to signify something other than personal looks. It is singular that "handsome" should have become the word for a strikingly good looking person, since its literal meaning is handy, dexterous. But "pretty" likewise comes from the Anglo-Saxon word meaning "stiv."

Daddy's Bedtime

Why the Story—Oriole Is a Happy Bird.

The Hornet Became an Oriole.

DADDY had shown the children a pretty little nest in a tall tree in the garden and promised them a story about it at bedtime.

"And now we are ready to go to bed," Jack and Evelyn suggested as the clock on the mantel chimed out the hour.

"I told you that the little nest we saw was the home of the oriole," daddy began.

"So he is," daddy agreed. "There are several kinds of orioles, all looking a little different, but all building those hammock-like swinging nests at the end of the branch of a tree."

"There is an old story about the oriole, but I think I shall have to ask you to take it with some grains of salt."

"This story says that once upon a time the oriole was a hornet. Though it was kind and gentle at heart, yet every one feared it on account of its sting. No one would let it make its home near their house."

"But war broke out between old King Boreas, who ruled the land of snow and ice, and Queen Flora, who ruled the land of sunshine and flowers. Flora's armies were one after another beaten. The good queen feared that she would be driven away and her subjects killed or become the slaves of cruel Boreas."

"One day there flew into the window of her palace a little brown insect. It was the hornet."

"Let me go and fight this cruel enemy of yours, great queen," the hornet begged. The queen said that he might go.

"He flew straight for King Boreas himself, and he stung him wherever he could. The king struck at him with his terrible warclub, but the hornet was so small and nimble that he could never hit him."

"You know how hornets can sting. Well, at last the king turned and fled. When the hornet went back to tell his queen that King Boreas and his army had gone, she was so grateful that she asked the tiny hero what she could do to reward him."

"My queen," replied the hornet, "no one likes me. In all the world I have no friends, though I long for them."

"It shall be so no longer," cried the queen, waving her magic wand.

"Instantly the hornet was changed into an oriole, and after singing a wonderful song of thanks to the queen flew out of the window to build his nest, a welcome guest wherever he chose to go."

"His nest still looks like the hornet's, though he now is a weaver instead of a mason. He stings no longer, and every one is his friend."

MARRIAGE GOES
WITH LONG LIFE

Following so closely upon the announcement that the income tax will provide certain exemptions for married persons, all things being equal, live longer than those who never enter the state of matrimony.
Is this an implied threat against those who remain single?

At any rate, the bachelor has the satisfaction of knowing that if his days on this earth are numbered less than those of his married brother, the length of life of the old maid also is of shorter duration than that of her sister who assumes the cares of a family.

No less an authority than Prof.
Walter F. Wilcox of Cornell university declares that bachelor maids, in spite of their methodical lives, show almost as high a death rate compared to married women of the same age as do the men. In every period, except that between the ages of 20 and 29, according to Prof. Wilcox's figures, the married women have a markedly lower death rate than the unmarried, while the mortality among widowed and divorced women is at some periods half again as great as among the married.

The Journal of the American Medical association shows editorially that the mortality among bachelors is at many age periods twice as great as among married men, while the havoc wrought by death among men who have lost their help-mates through divorce or natural causes is appalling.

All of which is not very comforting for the bachelor or for the bachelor maid, but it evokes the old retort that married people do not really live longer, but that it only seems longer.

EDNA FERBER'S VIEWS
OF THE $6 GIRL

"If I were a $6 a week girl I would resent so much of this poking into my business," says Edna Ferber, the novelist. "Low wages are not the only cause of girls falling. It seems to me that there are many causes. If there were only one I know that we could blot it out."

The conclusion that has been reached by Miss Ferber is similar to that of many of the investigators themselves and while the effort to bring about a minimum wage for girls has many features that make a minimum wage desirable there is no assurance that it will decrease to any marked extent the social evil. The recent investigations both in New York and in Chicago show that while economic conditions have much to do with the social evil, in not a single case among many hundreds examined did the girl ascribe the cause of her fall exclusively to low wages.

On the other hand, the women of their class had been recruited from all stations in the economic scale.

It is Edna Ferber's impression that the girl who is earning $25 a week is just as much in need of watching as the girl working for $6 a week.
The desire to live beyond their income, whatever it may be, the human desire to have what is always just beyond reach, is the real cause, or one of them at least, of the fall of many a girl and this appears to be the only fact that the investigations have succeeded in bringing out.

And many of the $6 a week girls have cause for complaint, though the object of the social workers has been to lift them in the social scale.
There are thousands of these girls whose lives are as clean as those who seek their emancipation but the investigations leave a doubtful impression regarding them that is extremely unfortunate.

HERE'S THE PREACHER
AND THE SERMON

An attractive lithograph of Davenport's new river park and levee, just at hand, presents in a convincing way the advantages of the great municipal project undertaken by that city, and illustrates how under some conditions great improvements for both beautification and utilization of a harbor can be achieved, not only without cost, but at a handsome profit.

In a word, the levee commission of Davenport has reclaimed 152 acres of land, valued at $3,000,000.
The work done and to be done will cost $1,000,000, hence the harbor enterprise will net the city a profit of $2,000,000.

Half of the reclaimed land is to be placed at the disposal of the Davenport park commission for conversion into a riverside park. The other half will be made a modern freight terminal, with belt line, municipal elevators and warehouses and modern devices for transferring freight from boat to train and train to boat. The work at present is but half done, and it is estimated that it will not be completed before September, 1915.

A significant feature of this program is that pertaining to dock facilities. The Davenport levee commission declares that, in its opinion, the proposed revival of freighting on the Mississippi river must fail, no matter how perfect the channel, unless economical means of handling freight shall be supplied by the cities.

Does it not behoove every city to cast about for means of doing what it can in line with the Davenport enterprise? No doubt many cities might, like Davenport, actually profit by reclamation work out of which may be wrought docks and parks and new and valuable land.

The Davenport lithograph, with suitable data, should be placed on the desk of every city official in every municipality on the Mississippi river. The Upper Mississippi River Improvement association would do well to take cognizance of this suggestion.

The colonel has been invited to ble for him to learn the use of the

It is surprising how cool a girl

Bargain Fire Sale

Mrs. Breen had talked enthusiastically of the largely advertised fire sale which was to take place in one of the downtown department stores.
That evening when her husband came home he looked about at a number of bundles which were lying on the table.

"Well, Mabel, what did you find at that wonderful fire sale?" he inquired.

"Oh, well, I got some of the loveliest silk stockings at 24 cents a pair! There isn't a thing the matter with them except that the feet are burned off."—Harper's Magazine.

The Difference
I don't care how the robin sings
Or how the rooster flaps his wings.
I don't care how the sun may shine,
I can't cheer up for woe is mine,
All nature may be glad and gay,
When the home team drops a game.

I care not how the rain may pour
Or how the price of meat may soar, The clouds may hang close to the ground
And pessimists may growl around,
But happiness in me holds sway,
And naught keeps me from feeling gay,
When the home team wins a game.

Dead Weight
One of the Great Northern road's proudest boasts is its heavy average car loading. It exceeds its neighbors in this respect and reflects it in the low cost of operating. Great Northern's agents are carefully instructed not to ship a car unless it is loaded as heavily as possible. These instructions are followed particularly on the small branch lines, sprouting out from the main line. A conscientious rural agent once received a corpse for shipment, but this was all he had to put in the car.
Not wishing to delay the forwarding of the body, but remembering orders about carloading, he wired the headquarters: "Have corpse awaiting shipment. Wire instructions."

The answer came: "Wait for carload."

Her Ruling Passion
The great baseball player's wife had never seen a game, but he finally persuaded her to view one in which he was to play.

He was doing his best, of course.
One strike had been called on him and, as usual, in baseball anecdotes, two men were out and the bases full.
Our hero was gathering his strength for the swat he was going to give the ball.

And the ball came. He knew it was his as the ball started, and with a mighty crack he lifted it into space.
Dropping his bat, he sped for first, and ere the roar of applause burst out a slight woman in the grandstand arose and called:

"Will, come back here and put that bat where it belongs!"

Fashionable Doctoring
"Doctor, I want you to look after my office while I'm on my vacation." "But I've just graduated, doctor. I have had no experience."

"That's all right, my boy. My practice is strictly fashionable. Tell the men to play golf and ship the women off to Atlantic City."

The dead-sure thing is often more dead than sure.

"OH! . . . OH!"

can be traced to their sources in fac-

Keeping well is the cheapest thing in the world to do.

While you are keeping well you can save a lot of money.
Drink nothing but water.
Eat the plainest of food. The plainest of food is the cheapest.

Walking is a splendid exercise.
Walk and save car fare.
Get plenty of outdoor air. Shovel your own snow, split your own wood, mow your own grass, take care of your own furnace.

This is a splendid system.
So they tell us.

Real Hunting
"Yes," said the meek looking man.
"I've no doubt you've had some great hunting experiences in your travels abroad."

"I have, indeed."
"Buffalo hunting?"
"Yes."
"And bear hunting?"
"Of course."
"Well, you just come around and let my wife take you house hunting and bargain hunting with her. Then you'll begin to know what real excitement is."

Better Chance
"How did you come to be sent to congress?" said the inquisitive person.

"Well," replied Senator Sorglum,
"some of my most influential constituents concluded I could do better work for them on the floor than I could as a regular lobbyist."—

Consituents of Dust.
Among the constituents of dust floating in the air are lead, silver, copper, rubbidium, gallium, indium, thallium, nickel, manganese, etc. Many of these can be traced to their sources in factory chimneys and flues. Dust from clouds, collected either by itself or in hail, snow, sleet or rain exhibits a regularity of composition not seen in other varieties of dust. Iron, nickel, calcium, copper, potassium and sodium always appear in it in about the same proportions. Some dust that fell some years ago near Dublin resembled meteorites in its composition, was attracted by a magnet and seemed to be of cosmic origin.

Pledged to work for the adoption of a complete and unified system of national, state, county, and township highways, the Ohio Good Roads Federation has become amalgamated with the National Highways association.

"An" say, added Rosalie, "if you don't think that minute or so was about the tightest squeeze I ever had, you miss a guess, that's all. Near broke me in two. I was so tucked out holdin' on to myself that I feel it yet. I had to pretend that my control had weakened me."

"Is that all?" asked McGee.
"Yes. Ain't it enough?"
"Well, it's suspicious. But there's no real evidence. Nothing you can convict on. Just because one of her shoe-buttons was found on the fire-escape, and she's living under an assumed name, and the entrance to the room was through the window, it's no proof that a sick woman came down the fire-escape and killed a big man standing up in front of her. You can't make a jury believe that. Suppose I pinch her—and her brother, too—and give 'em the Third Degree?"

"See here, Martin McGee," replied Rosalie, "what have I been takin' all this trouble for, spendin' my good time to get her to believe I'm a medium, if I ain't to be trusted to run this case? You can have your Third Degree afterward—when I'm through with mine."

"That's so," replied McGee. "Well, anything I can do to help?"
"Yes. How long does it take to get a man to Trinidad? Or is there anybody in Port of Spain that you can use?"

"I've had a man there a week.
Another case—missing burglar?"
"That's good. Very important?"
"No. I guess he can be spared."

"Luck's with us if nothin' else.
This is a three-times winnin'. Now you just cable him—wait a minute, I'll write the message—got a pencil an' paper?"

They were in a side street. A lamp post threw a shaft of light across the stoop of a vacant house. Rosalie sat herself on the lowest step, braced the note-book which McGee produced, and, with many a purse of lip and brow, composed the following message:

"Drop anything and get full information on the late Miguel Perez, cacao grower of Port of Spain, and his family, especially Juan his son, and a daughter, probably half-sister of Juan, name unknown. Details about life of the family especially wanted and the smaller the better.
Learn everything you can about first wife. Suggest pumping old family servants. Wire in full as you get the dope."

"There," concluded Rosalie, "an'
a lot I'm goin' to cost New York City for cable tolls."

McGee laughed as he put the notebook carefully in his inner pocket.
"There are several jokes on me tonight," he said. "Well, if it turns out that Wade didn't do it, I'll be kinder glad. I've hated that fellow, and yet I've kind of come to respect him, too. Say, this is one case where you can't keep out of court and the papers, ain't it?"

On Sunday night, August 17, a meeting will be held in the North Presbyterian church, when Rev. H. B. Leonard, pastor of the Baptist church will speak. Sunday night, August 24, a meeting will be held in the Caledonia Street Methodist church, Rev. Finch A. Clark, pastor of the church will speak.

At Play Grounds

SOUTH SIDE SENIOR LEAGUE
In a listless game in which the Imperials played their poorest game of the season, the Colts were defeated at their hands 8 to 3. Errors and poor playing were prevalent throughout, the only Imperial spot in the whole game being the pitching of Weigle of the Imperial team. The Imperials lead the league with a perfect percentage.

The regulars forfeited a game to the Cardinals by non-appearance. The Imperials defeated the Pirates of Hood street in a fast game by the score of 4 to 1. The work of the batteries featured, especially that of Weigle and his partner. Weigle struck out twelve men in five innings and the last three innings every Pirate who faced him fanned.

The Colts forfeited a game to the Cardinals by non-appearance.

SOUTH SIDE JUNIOR LEAGUE
The White Sox are again tied for first place, having defeated the Dodgers by the score of 11 to 1. The game was all "Sox" throughout, the pitching of Schnell being of the best. The Sox scored in every inning but one and pounded the opposing pitcher unmercifully. The Hoosiers and the Sox are now tied for first place with five victories and no defeats.

The Dodgers and Ramblers engaged in deadly combat at the Hood street grounds and the Ramblers poled out a victory. A few errors combined with heavy hitting gave the Ramblers a lead which the Dodgers were unable to overcome, although they started a rally which looked dangerous for the Ramblers. The score stood 11 to 6 in favor of the Ramblers when darkness put a stop to the game.

The Ramblers defeated the Dodgers in a fast game at the Hood street grounds to the tune of 9 to 4. The Dodgers had difficulty in solving the delivery of the Ramblers pitcher. The Ramblers are coming right to the front and will make some of the other teams hustle for pennant honors.

The White Sox defeated the Hoosiers by the score of 6 to 2. The work of Schnell featured, he striking out eleven men and his "head" work had them guessing all the time. The Sox bunched their hits at opportune times and in this way won their game.

The Cardinals defeated the Ramblers at Hood street by the score of 9 to 1.

SOUTH SIDE MIDGET LEAGUE
The Phenoms of Hood street nosed out a close victory over the All-Stars of West avenue by the score of 4 to 2. Rogstad of the Phenoms played an excellent game at short accepting a large number of chances without an error. As both teams are running neck and neck for second place in the league, the play was very close at all stages of the game. The All-Stars started a rally in the last inning but a sensational double play of the Phenoms saved the day for them. The teams are now tied for second place.

The Badgers added to their string of victories by defeating the fast Phenoms of Hood street by the score of 9 to 4. The Phenoms were unable to hit safely with men on bases, while the Badgers made hits when they were needed. Denny of the Badgers pitched a good game in addition to making a number of safe catches with men on bases.

The Allstars swamped the Runts by the score of 22 to 1. The Stars slammed the ball all over the lot and the game was never in danger. Grosskopf pitched a good game, holding the Runts safe at all stages. Versey, Kabat and Kauffuss starred with the stick, Kauffuss hitting safely four times.

The Runts forfeited a game to the Badgers by non-appearance. The Badgers defeated the Phenoms at Hood street by the score of 12 to 4.

FIVE HUNDRED SEE PLAY EXHIBITION

Good Crowd Attends Contests Staged by Children in Copeland Park

It was a gala day in Copeland Park playground yesterday when over five hundred people watched with interest the exhibitions put on by both girls and boys of the playground leagues. The feats were under the direction of Milton Geer, director of the north side playfield, and Miss Amanda Clement, who is in charge of the girl's work at the field.

The Phenoms, fast Hood street Midget team of indoor baseball players came from the south side grounds to play the Champs who are leading the midget league on the north side for pennant honors. The north side defeated the south side boys by the close score of 5 to 4.

Games in which boys and girls participated were as follows: Horizontal bar work—Emerson, Ahlstrom, Knuteson, Dickens. Basketball relay race—North Side vs. South Side. "Shuttle" relay race—Girls of the playground. Relay race (200 yards)—Boys of the playground.

WINONANS BUNCOED BY NAVY UNIFORM

WINONA, Minn., Aug. 7.—A stranger garbed in the uniform of a United States naval officer and carrying many blank checks of the First National bank of St. Paul, was arrested in Winona yesterday, after passing, it is alleged, a number of the checks which the police believe are worthless. The man, who gave his name as Otto Von Schmitz, came here several days ago, convinced leading German families that he was a relative, and later produced the paper which in several instances was cashed at his request.

Many a man has made a monkey of himself trying to ape his betters.

LESS BOWEL TROUBLE IN LA CROSSE

La Crosse people have found out that a SINGLE DOSE of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler's-ka, the German bowel and stomach remedy, relieves constipation, sour stomach or gas on the stomach INSTANTLY. This simple mixture became famous by curing appendicitis and it draws off a surprising amount of old foul matter from the body. It is wonderful how QUICKLY it helps. Hoeschler Bros.

Experts informed Wendt that it was worth probably $2,000, but Wendt considered the $20 in hand a small fortune, and snapped up the offer eagerly.

That the bee-keeping industry is one that pays well if given good chance is fully demonstrated by the fact that Mr. Prinzing, who came to this city a few months ago, recently took from his ninety hives, about four thousand pounds of beautiful honey within a short time. At yesterday's session, which marked the close of the convention, one of the most important matters discussed was the formation of a mutual insurance company to carry publishers' compensation risks, patterned after the company organized by the state hardwaremen's association. A committee consisting of J. S. Hubbard, Beloit; H. E. Zimmermann, Burlington and F. P. Gessler, Bangor, was appointed to investigate the feasibility of the plan.

MAUDE ADAMS

What will be to many people the most important theatrical event of the season is the appearance of Maude Adams at the La Crosse Theatre Monday, Aug. 11 in James Matthew Barrie's classic fairy play, "Peter Pan." This whimsical work of eternal youth and joy and happiness is known throughout the English speaking world. Had the gifted Scotch dramatist never written "The Little Minister," "Quality Street" or "What Every Woman Knows," this play having for its hero the boy who wouldn't grow up would have made him famous. The success that has fallen to it and to Miss Adams as its hero is a matter of theatrical history. Many plays have been produced since Barrie gave "Peter Pan" to the stage. A number of these were smiled upon and applauded as successes, but they have lived their little day and passed into oblivion while "Peter Pan" continues to live and grow more attractive with time.

There is much charm to Barrie's story. "Peter Pan" was the boy who wouldn't grow up. He lived in the Never-Never, Never Land, but one day while he was sitting on the window ledge listening to Mrs. Darling telling stories to Wendy, John, Michael and Michael Nicholas Darling, the window closed suddenly and cut off his shadow. Mrs. Darling who was as neat as she was a pretty mother, put the shadow away in the top bureau drawer just as though it were a dress pattern or something, but Peter got very unhappy and lonely without it, and one evening when Mr. and Mrs. Darling had gone out to dinner and the children were asleep in their three beds, he flew into the open window and rummaged around until he found it again. The children awoke just as Peter was trying to stick the shadow on again by rubbing it with a piece of soap, and

FAREWELL PARTY

Last evening at the home of Mrs. L. W. Pomeroy, a farewell surprise party was given to Miss Byrl Pomeroy by her friends of the La Crosse Telephone company.

Miss Pomeroy is leaving La Crosse to take up a new position in Shelby, Mont., and the girls assembled in one final round of merriment. As a token of friendship and kind regard, the girls presented Miss Pomeroy with a beautiful traveling bag which will prove a very useful gift and will always bring back pleasant recollections of the many good times spent with friends back home.

Refreshments were served and after fond farewells and best wishes the girls departed to their homes having spent a most enjoyable evening. Among those present were: Ruth Delphnich, Anna Peter, Eva Michel, Anna Bettin, Ellen Farrell, Mary Malay, Hazel Willey, Agnes Klick, Helen Ott, Carrie Larson, Clara Pavik, Maude Pomeroy, Holly Pomeroy, Ella Michel, Marie Delphnich, Hattie Bettin, Madge Kennedy, Ella Bittner, Elizabeth Wernuth, Alma Henkin, Frieda Schultz, Marie Wittenberg, Lioba Roth, Hazel Pomeroy, Laura Post, Grace Pomeroy.

TENTH BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Charles Rysdon entertained in honor of the birthday of her son Max Lee Rysdon who reached his tenth birthday yesterday. The guests were members of his Sunday School class, his teacher, Miss Charlotte Emery, and a few others. It was the intention to serve refreshments on the lawn, the tables with their pretty appointments being in readiness, when the threatening weather forced a hasty removal in doors. The invited guests were Harold Schroeder, Harold Carpenter, Rudolph Brown, George Killian, John Ray, John Flynn, Lawrence Englehart, Donald Hoeschler and Malcolm Ennisson.

WAS BLOODTHIRSTY BUT COULDN'T FIRE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 7. — Skinner Williams' ignorance of firearms is probably responsible for the fact that he stands charged with burglary instead of assault with intent to kill, or perhaps murder. In selecting a revolver in a second hand store that he raided early on Wednesday, he took a .38 caliber revolver, but picked .32 caliber cartridges for the weapon. So, when he was cornered under a bed in an east side lodging house by Detectives Pergande and Biersach, his weapon was useless, and although he waved it threateningly and declared he would not be taken alive, he was as helpless as if he had no pistol. His cartridges would not fit his revolver.

FIREMAN HURT

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 7.—One fireman, Frank Borowski, may be crippled for life and three others, painfully wounded, are at the Good Samaritan hospital this morning as a result of the collision between hose cart and a street car. Borowski was riding on the side nearest the car and is in a serious condition.

How to Lose Your Tan, Freckles or Wrinkles

(From Woman's Tribune.)
A day's motoring, an afternoon on the tennis ground or golf links, a sunbath on the beach or exposure on a sea trip, often brings on a deep tan or vivid crimson or more perplexing still, a vigorous crop of freckles. A very necessary thing then is mercurized wax, which removes tan, redness or freckles quite easily. It literally peels off the affected skin—just a little at a time, so there's no hurt or injury. As the skin comes off in almost invisible flaky particles, no trace of the treatment is shown. Get an ounce of mercurized wax at your druggist's and use this nightly as you would cold cream, washing it off mornings. In a week or so you will have an entirely new skin, beautifully clear, transparent and of a most delicate whiteness.

Wrinkles, so apt to form at this season, may be easily and quickly removed by bathing the face in a solution of powdered hazel, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, ½ pt. This is not only a valuable astringent, but has a beneficial tonic effect also.—Advertisement.

CONRAD IS FAIR TO LA CROSSE FANS

Owner of Local Club of the Northern League Wants Locals to Control in 1914

HAS DEEP PERSONAL INTEREST

That Is Why He Desires to Retain Part Ownership in Club He Brings to Us

If the support given the team during the remainder of the season lends any reasonable foundation for the hope that it may do fairly well here next season, Mr. H. P. Conrad, owner of the team, will do his part toward giving La Crosse the Northern League organization during 1914. In asserting this much to the Tribune this morning Mr. Conrad found occasion to straighten out a statement published here and in Winona, misinterpretation of which would be calculated to make the local fans distrustful. In this statement Mr. Conrad was represented as having said that in the event the team remains in La Crosse he may retain ownership of it.

"The La Crosse directors should have an interest in the team," said Mr. Conrad, "and perhaps other local business men may appreciate the desirability of interesting themselves. In my opinion the controlling interest of a 'La Crosse' team should unquestionably be in La Crosse. On the other hand, I feel a keen personal interest in this team, and would enjoy retaining a portion of the stock, whatever the local directors think fair, for I want to keep in touch with the boys."

"We have a number of men of whom I could readily dispose. In fact, seven of the men are strong. We have the strongest catching staff in the league, either Lizzette or Hruska being better than any other catcher. Drels, at third, De Rusha, first sacker, Grogan, second, Kremer, and Sutton, pitchers, and Breckenridge in the outfield are big timber in this league. With three or four new men this organization should make a strong bid for the pennant next year."

"La Crosse people should not judge the team too hastily. Breckenridge, the fastest fielder in the Northern League, is out of the game. Weigert, shortstop, is also crippled. These have caused a shift in the positions that makes things awkward. But watch the individual players and you will see some splendid material. The cripples are doing well, and next week should see the team intact."

RACES BATTLE ON CHICAGO CAR

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—An insulting remark, said to have been addressed by a negro to an unescorted white girl, caused a race riot on a street car in the Stock Yards district early yesterday, in which several persons were injured and policemen and a crowd of negroes exchanged fifty shots.

The insult was resented by a white man. The negro drew a revolver, according to witnesses, and threatened to shoot the girl's defender. Two other white men on the car rushed to the man's aid, but were beaten and thrown from the car by a crowd of blacks.

In the panic that followed, Mrs. May A. Barrett was taken over the head, her nose fractured and her front teeth knocked out. Her little daughter Marie was trampled upon until she was unconscious and then thrown from the car.

E. A. Burn, one of the whites, sustained a long gash in his head. Patrolmen who answered a riot call pursued the negroes for several blocks. A squad of detectives was sent to the district yesterday afternoon, the police fearing a repetition of the trouble.

The farmers in the vicinity of La Crosse are practically through with their hay cutting on the first crop, and are making preparations for the cutting of the second crop. Those growing oats are now busy in the harvesting of this grain. A monument to "Patience"

When "Patience" was produced at the Standard theater, New York, and afterward at the Grosvenor for seven months, a remarkable run in those days, the opera was taken off in the full tide of its prosperity to produce another opera, "Claude Duval." The artists of the company were rather chagrined at having to rehearse a new opera when "Patience" was so successful, so they built a tomb in the basement of the theater upon which a papier mache statue of Patience was placed, with the inscription "Sacred to the Memory of 'Patience,' Cruelly Murdered by 'Claude Duval.'—Exchange.

FIRST TIME HERE, SENSATIONAL AUTO POLO.

NEW GAME OF AUTO POLO IS REPLETE WITH THRILLS

AUTO POLOISTS IN ACTION

The management of the 101 Ranch Wild West show, which exhibits in La Crosse Saturday announces as an especially added feature, one of the most sensational acts ever presented in a Wild West arena. Auto Polo the title of this remarkable act, suggests the character of this performance, but it does not give an adequate idea of its strenuousness or the tense excitement it creates.

In Auto polo, four racing machines are utilized, although two are kept in reserve in case of accidents. Each machine carries a mallet man and a chauffeur. It is the mallet man who strikes the ball and endeavors to get it over the enemy's goal; but it is the chauffeur who drives the auto, and who has the responsibility of keeping out of the way of the other machines.

Line Up Behind Goals
The machines are lined up behind the goals, one on each end of with the ball in the center of the field. As the signal shot rings out the machines dart into the arena, each driver endeavoring to reach the leather before the "enemy"—each daring collision and possible disaster in the effort to reach the ball first and send it hurtling toward the opposition goal. Of course, it is dangerous—a collision is always imminent—and now and again, when a machine strikes an obstruction, the car is thrown into the air and lands upside down; but these are things to be expected in the game. As a rule, however, the machines swerve just in time to prevent them coming for a collision. One of the mallet men is fortunate enough to strike the ball and send it flying into the air, only to have it stopped by the mallet man in the opposition car. Then comes a struggle—the cars flying back and forth—to and fro, with the speed of a locomotive—the mallet men strive, keen eyed and with every muscle at a tension, utilizing every opportunity to reach the ball, until, by some lucky strike, the "leather" is sent over the line and a goal is scored.

Is Novelty

Auto polo, which has all the characteristics of pony polo but with a thousand added accidents—is the novelty of the year and is in keeping with the strenuous character of the 101 Ranch Wild West show, which offers a tremendous border exhibition, comprehending every known of wild west life. Scores of cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Mexicans, Vaqueros, Cossacks, and other interesting characters appear in the arena, and in the preliminary parade which the management offers the public at 10:30 a. m. on the opening morning of the exhibition.

WIFE DISAPPEARS HUSBAND IS HELD

Chicago Chef Is Arrested when Police Find Bloody Clothing Under a Porch

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—John Grady, 32, chef at the Grand Pacific hotel, was taken into custody by the police today, following the finding under the front porch at his home, 121 East 55th street, of a mass of blood-soaked women's wearing apparel. The clothing had lain there for some time.

The find was made while detectives were investigating the mysterious disappearance of Grady's wife, former actress and a Cincinnati, O., woman who has been missing for nearly two years. Mrs. Grady's sister, a Cincinnati woman, came to Chicago today to aid in the search. She said she had heard no word from her sister for twenty-one months and that Grady refused her any information.

A squad of policemen was sent to the Grady home this afternoon to dig in the cellar in the belief that the woman's body would be found and an examination of the furnace ashes will be made.

RAID RESIDENCE AND ARREST TWO WOMEN

Mrs. Sarah Jones, comely grass widow, together with a woman giving the name of Frieda Williams were arrested with O. L. Bantz, Minneapolis, and Howard Townley, Grand Rapids, Mich., in the home of Mrs. Jones, 410 Cameron avenue, last night.

The "pinch" followed several days' secret work by the police who claim that the number of male callers entertained by the Jones woman aroused suspicion in the neighborhood.

Patrolman Rick lay in wait last night and the couples were seen to enter the place. After a respectable interval when the men did not come out a genuine "raid" was ordered.

A charge of lewd and lascivious conduct will be made against them this afternoon by District Attorney D. S. Law.

CHAIN GANG FOR INDOLENT HOBOES

Recommendations Will Probably Be Made to the Council to Put Them at Work on Streets

The chain gang and work on city streets is the means recommended by the council committee on fire and police to rid La Crosse of the hobo who have been infesting the city in large numbers this year.

The plan has the hearty approval of Mayor Ori J. Sorensen and at a meeting prior to the regular council meeting Friday night the recommendations to the council will be prepared.

While the system proposed for La Crosse is not the same as the "go to work, to jail or out of town" order of Mayor Nye of Minneapolis, it is expected to prove even more effective.

Mayor Sorensen argues that with the hiring of an additional policeman to supervise their work the "bums" could be used on some of the streets to great advantage.

PROFESSOR KILLED

BREWER'S CHECK PUT IN EVIDENCE

New York Probers Produce Slip Worth $250 Said to Have Been Concealed by Sulzer

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—As a climax to today's probe into the campaign fund of Gov. Sulzer, the Fraxley investigating committee produced another check said to have been received by the governor, but not reported in the sworn statement of his contributions. It was for $250 and was produced by Henry A. Keckheisen, a representative of Peter Doelger, the brewer. It purported to be Doelger's contribution to the Sulzer campaign fund, was signed by Peter Doelger and Charles P. Doelger, attorney, was drawn on the Yorkville bank and was endorsed with the rubber stamped signature "William Sulzer" and "L. A. Sarecky." Attorney Richards, for the committee called to the attention of the committee the fact that this check, dated October 14, was drawn before Sulzer left New York on his campaign trip. Attached was the following letter, addressed to Peter Doelger, Jr.

"Your check to the order of Mr. William Sulzer for $250 was received this morning and I shall be very glad to hand it to Mr. Sulzer today. Thanking you in his behalf, I am, Very Sincerely Yours, "CHARLES A. STADLER."

MEETS MAN WHO SAVED HIS LIFE

WEST SALEM, Wis., Aug. 7.—(Special)—Orlo Robinson, an aged veteran, was walking down Leonard street here when he saw a stranger wearing a bronze button, the twin to the one in Orlo's own lapel. Robinson stopped the stranger and inquired his name. In a second they were shaking hands vigorously, for Robinson, at the mention of the name of the man who carried him out of the battle of Nashville after he had been severely wounded. The stranger was D. H. Hall, West Union, Iowa, who fought through the war as a member of company I, Eighth Wisconsin. Mr. Hall while in this part of the country paid a visit to his comrades Edward Cronon of La Crosse and "Billy" Hewitt of Sparta.

PNEUMONIA MAY CAUSE HER DEATH

Injuries to Aged Mrs. Luedke Hit by Team Result in Attack on Lungs

Little hope is held for the recovery of the aged Mrs. Augusta Luedke who was struck by a team of horses late Tuesday afternoon while she was crossing the street in front of her home, 1202 South Third street. This morning it was discovered by Dr. J. A. Rowles that pneumonia had set in. One of her lungs is rapidly becoming congested.

Two fractures were sustained on the right arm, and a fracture on the limb. Her shoulder was broken and her face was badly bruised. It was the opinion of Dr. Rowles that she would not live until today. According to him, all that is keeping her alive is her strong constitution.

Henry Smith, employee of the Post saloon, and the owner of the team, Elmer LeFleur, Pine Creek, are being held by the police pending Mrs. Luedke's death or recovery.

CONDITION THE SAME

MRS. BESSIE GILLIS AT HOSPITAL SHOWS NO IMPROVEMENT WITH SELF-INFLICTED WOUND

The condition of Mrs. Bessie Gillis who attempted suicide by shooting herself yesterday morning has not changed. The bullet lodged in her left breast. She was taken to the St. Francis hospital where Dr. Edward Evans attended her.

The shooting was done by Mrs. Gillis on the eve of the marriage of her former husband, Henry Gillis, a street car conductor. Attempts today to get an explanation of her act from Mrs. Gillis have proved futile. It is believed that the shooting followed a failure to bring about a reconciliation with Gillis.

KILLS TWO MEN

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Anthony Puccia, 26, was shot through the heart and instantly killed, and David Cozza, 26, was shot through the back and fatally wounded in an Italian rooming house early today. Dio Mareno, 45, is under arrest, charged with firing both shots.

Monarchs Not Over Cleanly

King Charles IV. of England dressed shabbily and Louis XIV. of France disliked to wash, a little cold cream applied with a handkerchief being the chief tribute he paid to cleanliness. In St. Simon's detailed account of the king's day, from the passing of his periwig through the closed bed curtains in the morning to the ceremonial placing of the night shirt over his shoulders when he retired, there is no mention of any ablutions.

Got No Sympathy from Him

Fort Scott has a citizen who is a dyspeptic and therefore has a grievance against anybody that has an appetite. Recently a hobo met him on the street. URGES BIG CHANGE IN LEGISLATURE

The law-making branch of the government may be composed of one house, in Wisconsin, of from nine to fifteen members, elected for comparatively long terms, and compensated for their whole time by adequate annual salaries. The body may sit continuously, and meet questions of legislation as they arise.

Safeguards may be thrown about the passage of legislation on short notice and about undue delay by requirements similar to the three-fifths appropriation and tax quorum, the constitutional amendments majority of members elect, and the banking law two-thirds majority provision of our present constitution.

Vote on Knowledge

"Each member may vote upon his own knowledge and mastery of the subject. All important questions may be considered in committee of whole, and every member benefit by the special knowledge and information of experts and of parties directly concerned, instead of this opportunity being confined to small committee, and the great bulk of the membership having to decide upon faith, prejudice and guess work, the only methods available under the present system. In a body of ten or fifteen men, questions may be so debated and threshed out that all master the subject, and the resulting statute contain the best thought of each. Scientific legislation would be the profession, practically the sole occupation, of the members of such a body, instead of law-making being a transitory incident for a few days each week of a few months once or twice in a busy and engrossed lifetime, as it is with most of the members of present legislatures.

"This plan will not be a panacea for all legislative and governmental ills. It will have its own peculiar problems to meet in its own constitution, and will retain weaknesses inherent in any representative law-making body, but it will be so great an improvement over the present antiquated system that the old legislature will in a few years after its adoption be, like the crude implements of the stine age, one of the curios of history.

"This idea is not entirely new. It has been officially recommended by the governor of Kansas and I do not know but what it may have been advanced in one way or another in Oregon and some other states. I am thoroughly convinced that a few years will see it taking the place of the old system. The initiative, referendum and recall, instead of bringing in an era of unscientific law-making, as their opponents profess to fear, will in this way make possible scientific law-making within the direct and absolute control of the people."

McREYNOLDS DECALRES HE HAS NOT HAD AGENTS SPYING ON FEDERAL JUDGES—BORAH ANGRY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—General denial by Attorney General McReynolds that special agents of his department have practiced espionage over the federal judiciary, thereby influencing the decisions of some of the federal courts, led Senator Borah to declare that he would prove the charge.

The Works resolution, to which Attorney General McReynolds replied, called attention to a complaint from U. S. Circuit Judge Speer of Atlanta against activities of special agent Lucius Works asserted that McReynolds answer was wholly unsatisfactory.

M'CORMICK SAYS HE WAS IN ROW

Chicago Publisher Denies that He Was Drunk When Put Off Train in His Pajamas

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Before continuing his trip to Boston interrupted here yesterday by his being put off a train in his pajamas, Medill McCormick of Chicago, issued the following statement:

"It is as unnecessary as it is futile to deny gossip stories of intoxication. At Ishpeming we had an example of that sort of rot. I spent the evening on the train with Mr. Runnels, president of the Pullman company, and an old friend of mine. We later were joined by some of the train crew with whom there resulted a discussion which has been productive of the nonsensical yarns about myself.

"These gentlemen and I did not agree and it became not merely a discussion but an altercation with results which I know they now regret far more than I.

"I think it is unnecessary for me to say more to the men who have worked with me in forty-eight states and who with me believed that it is better to suffer a little in the cause of humanity than to engage in law suits.

"Perhaps it is unnecessary for me to say to my friends that I was on my way to Boston to join my wife and child and that, although I had been uncomfortably ill for some time with grip, I did not go to join Mrs. McCormick under the circumstances that have been suggested."

Following discussion of the Rose street viaduct and other North side crossing difficulties by the common council and citizens last night, a resolution was passed ordering the city attorney to start action to compel the rebuilding of the Rose street viaduct by the railway company.

The resolution also recommended that the Mill street and other crossing questions be investigated with a view to changes or improvements that will be permanent.

City Engineer George Bradish's plan to settle the North side crossing controversy by a subway under the Milwaukee road tracks at Mill street will not be presented to the state railroad commission at the hearing to be held in La Crosse Monday, August 11. Instead, the city will ask that the Rose street viaduct be rebuilt at the expense of the railroad company, as provided in the contract between the city and the road which was recently discovered.

Alderman Adam Kroner made a plea for a reduction in the costs of the change assessed against the city, declaring that the railroad will get the most benefit from the elimination of a grade crossing. He said that both the city and the street car company should be "let down easy."

He made no recommendation favoring either the subway or overhead schemes.

North Siders Speak

Several addresses were made by North side citizens, including some of the North Side Progressive league members. They were by no means a factor on the matter, being divided in favor of both subway and viaduct plans. Henry Baum, president of the Progressive league, was one of the strongest opponents of the subway plan. He declared that an underground passage would be dangerous to traffic at night.

After looking over subway blueprints prepared by Mr. Bradish, some of the North siders lined themselves up against the proposition because the approaches would encroach too much upon Mill street in front of business houses. In some places, they declared, there would be little over a dozen feet between store fronts and the subway approach.

ORDER TROOPS HOME

ALL BUT FEW OF MILITIA IN MICHIGAN STRIKE DISTRICT ARE TO BE WITHDRAWN

CALUMET, Mich., Aug. 7.—A message from Governor Ferris approving the plan for a gradual withdrawal of state troops from the copper country was received today by Brig.-Gen. Abbey who announced that the first of the 2,500 militiamen now mobilized here would probably be ordered home Saturday. Most of the remainder will follow during next week.

There were large accessions today to the ranks of the western Federation of Miners, following the refusal of mine operators to treat with a committee of non-union men who presented demands for an eight-hour day and a minimum wage of three dollars. With the exception of the demand for recognition of the union, the demands of the non-union men were the same as those of the strikers and when the companies refused to treat with the non-union workers the men almost in a body affiliated with the federation.

FIND MURDERED MAN

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 7.—The police were making every effort today to identify the body of an unknown young man, which was found by a night watchman in the Northern Pacific yards. It was at first believed that the murdered man was Fred Kvamme, of Lead, S. D., but another man later identified the body as that of John Carlson of Minneapolis. The body bore marks of having been robbed and an examination showed that three bullets had taken effect.

INSANITY ON INCREASE

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The most alarming ill-health symptom in the world today is the increase of insanity, according to Sir James Browne, one of England's best known alienists, presiding in the psychiatric section of the seventeenth international congress of medicine, today. FORMER PASTOR DIES

Rev. Amos A. Randall, age 45, a former pastor of the North Presbyterian church, died at his home in Ohio Monday. This was learned in a message to Rev. A. Clark, pastor of the church, today. Rev. Randall was pastor of the North side church for two years, leaving to take a charge in Frankfort, Ind., about four years ago. Recently he accepted a call in Ohio. He is survived by his wife, three daughters and two sons.

HANDSOME WOMAN STYLES SELF THE DEVIL'S EMISSARY

DENVER, Col., Aug. 7.—A fashionably gown brunette, good looking and of commanding presence, entered the governor's office today and demanded an interview with the chief executive.

"I am commissioned by Lucifer," she said, "to effect a truce between him and Christ. I want Governor Ammons to take charge of the negotiations. Lucifer will arrive in Denver August 10. He will have a large sum of money which he will turn over to the heavenly hosts for a complete pardon."

The governor's secretary

Claude Fairchild, assured the brunette that the governor would be glad to officiate. The woman is evidently insane.

A wreath made of leaves from the English garden of William T. Stead, the editor who went down with the ill-fated liner, was cast into the sea at the request of his children, who commissioned Miss Kate Stevens, long associated with their father in his reform work, to perform this tribute to their beloved dead.

Watching The Scoreboard

Giant fans believe the world to an end. The Pirates hammered Matthewson for ten hits in five innings and old Doc Crandall was traded to St. Louis, all in the same day. Incidentally the Giants lead over the Phillies was cut to six games.

A good reason for the Phillies revival is seen in the ninth inning of yesterday's game, as follows: Becker singled, Cravath tripled, Luderus doubled and Doolan tripled. Cravath also got his fourteenth home run of the year during the game.

The Dodgers forced the Cubs to go ten innings to beat them. Shulte and Saier broke up the game with two solid wallops in the final. Saier was for a home run.

The Athletics bumped back to their lead of 7½ games when Bush held the Naps to seven hits and one run while the Mackman mused up Vean Gregg. Santer drove the ball out of the lot with two men on base in the fifth inning.

Jennings' youngster Dauss turned another victory for the Tigers, by holding the Yankees to four hits.

The Red Sox took just an hour and six minutes to beat the St. Louis Browns. Bedient held the Browns to six hits, while every Boston arm with the exception of Gardner and Bedient hit safely at least once. Speaker drove out two doubles.

"TEDDY" STIRS DEMS

Denouncing Attorney General McReynolds, the governor declared his "white washing differed in no essential from the white washing of Ballinger by President Taft."

The speaker admitted that he held secretary Bryan in high regard.

IN The WORLD OF WOMEN

The American Medical Association at its recent Minneapolis meeting for the first time in the history elected a woman president, Dr. Lillian South, who was honored with the post. In her scientific investigations she has made a study of the hookworm.

Farrow's bank for women in London, the pioneer institution of its kind in the world, which is managed entirely by women, has grown to such an extent that it recently moved to new and enlarged quarters.

Under the will of Anna L. Gardner, of York, Pa., who recently left $400,000 to establish a home for unmarried women of good character in the State of Pennsylvania not less than 50 years old, it is stipulated that the institution shall be known as the Hahn Home and shall not be "an asylum for paupers, nor the insane, nor retreat for the vicious, nor a haven for those afflicted with contagious or infectious diseases."

It may be all right to take the thought for the deed, but no man ever got rich that way.

GRASS AND SILAGE
AN IDEAL FEED

"When I get my cows into grass again there will be more milk."

This is a statement frequently heard during the last month that the herd is confined in the yard. When once on pasture the yields show a marked increase even though the animals may have had plenty of good grain and forage previously.

What is there about grass which makes it such an excellent and very satisfactory food for a milk cow? Is it not its succulent nature?

Succulence means full of juice and the juicy ration for the dairy cow is the correct one from all standpoints. Large quantities of water are required by the cow in order to make large quantities of milk.

A large part, in fact all but about 10 or 12 per cent of milk is water, and consequently the cow that produces 5,000 pounds of milk in a year makes use of something like 7,000 pounds of water, or a little over, for milk alone, to say nothing of what is required for her body.

Thus the importance of a succulent ration, as well as a pure supply of drinking water is apparent.

Realizing the great stimulus to production which grass is, the dairymen anxious for large yields should seek to pattern his ration as nearly as possible the year around after this natural food.

Grass alone, of course, would not be satisfactory for winter feeding for it keeps the body of the cow too full of water and allows her to suffer from the cold, but in conjunction with more fat-forming foods, such as grains and feeders, grass would be a part of an ideal winter ration.

The nearest approach to grass, however, is silage and it is for this reason that silage is held in such high esteem by those who feed it.—R. B. Rushing.

GROWING MUSHROOMS.

While there is no mystery about growing mushrooms, it is such a special particular work that many have tried and failed. After the beds are planted it is almost entirely a question of right conditions of temperature and moisture. Knowledge of what is wanted and a careful touch are required.

The preparation of the beds also requires skill which comes from experience in handling manure. Several weeks are needed to properly mix and rot the material and it must be done in warm weather, or in a warm room. Caves or cellars are right places for this work and the winter is the best time. It is easier to keep them warm enough than to keep them cool enough in summer.

SUMMER PRUNING OF PEACHES.

Summer pruning should never be severe, however, for top growth and root growth are interdependent and in a well-rooted tree, any severe cutting would throw its root system out of balance and hold the tree back. A good top and plenty of dark green foliage are essential to healthy growth.

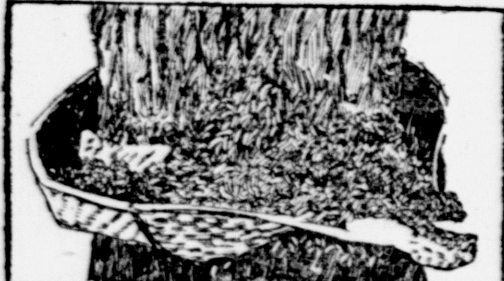

The work of summer pruning is so easily done that it is a temptation to go at the young and tender wood with the hands alone, but there is danger of skinning down from the broken twig a shoot. A pair of clippers such as one uses in pruning vines is safer.

SHADE TREE PESTS CAUSE GREAT DAMAGE.

By S. A. FORBES.

The protection of the shade trees and ornamental shrubs of our city parks against insects has been for several years a problem of increasing importance. Many of our most desirable trees and shrubs are liable to slow destruction by obscure insect pests little understood, if at all, by those immediately concerned.

Trees which have grown for years becoming more attractive, more valuable, and more highly valued year by year, begin to weaken and decay, the owner does not know why. This is often due to borers or to scale insects or beetles, the presence of which has not been detected or suspected, but whose injuries might have been prevented if the facts had been known in time. More sudden losses are frequently caused by overwhelming attacks of leaf-eating insects, which, although conspicuous, are not dealt with because proper measures of procedure are not known.

A trap for the Elm Leaf-beetle, made of strawboard and smeared with tanglefoot. Torn open July 10, 1912, to show the larvae that were caught.

THE WOODLOT.

A good income may be obtained from a farm woodlot if it is properly handled. The main thing is to make it better all the time by eliminating the less valuable trees and improving the conditions so the other trees may make a better growth.

Trees like elms ought always to be cut instead of trees like oak and walnut when they will serve the purpose equally well. Crooked trees make just as good firewood as straight trees. Grape vines and all similar pests injure the growth of the trees materially, and it will pay to cut them. Good management pays in woodlots.

CANNING STRAWBERRIES.

A very delicious strawberry sauce is made by sprinkling the washed and hulled strawberries with sugar, three-fourths of a cup of sugar to one quart of prepared strawberries. Allow them to stand over night. In the morning set in the oven and bake until boiling hot, put into sterilized jars, and seal. Do not allow the fruit to cook too pieces but simply become boiling hot.—Mary L. Bull.

It is generally assumed that 4 or 5 ounces of sugar per day is as much as it is well for the average adult to eat under ordinary conditions.

SAVE THE MANURE.

In promptly handling barnyard manure, the farmers can save or lose hundreds of dollars annually. A manure heap is a hot bed of bacterial activities. Some of the nitrogen is formed into ammonia and passes into the air; this is a clear loss. Some is transformed into nitrates, which are soluble. These are washed out by rains and sink into the soil, or run off into the ditch; this also is a direct loss. Some is formed by bacteria into nitrates and these nitrates attacked by another species of bacteria which change into nitrogen gas, which passes into the air and is lost.

PROTECTING INFANTS AND INVALIDS

The Chicago Medical Society Milk Commission is Doing a Very Excellent Work in Saving the Babies and Helping to Cure the Sick of That City by Making War on Poor Milk—The Commission Urges the Production of Only Clean Milk and Favors the Use of Certified Milk.

This medical society milk commission, which was established in 1909, is purely philanthropic in its aims, working without compensation or hope of reward other than helping maintain human health and saving the lives of helpless babies. It is composed of six practicing physicians resident in Chicago, appointed by the Chicago drawn from the cow until it is used as human food. The commission holds that contaminated milk can not be rendered pure by artificial processes and that while such "Processed Milk" may be useful for general commercial purposes it is not suitable as food for infants or invalids. Only healthy cows are used to produce a variation of only one-half of one per cent being allowed. Certified milk must be free from all disease germ and not contain over ten thousand non-pathogenic germs (not producing disease) in each drop. Commercial milk often has as high as one million germs in each drop.

Only healthy employees are permitted to work on farms producing certified milk. They must observe the highest degree of personal cleanliness at all times. When employed in milking they must wear clean white duck suits. Utensils used in handling certified milk must be kept scrupulously clean and sterilized before using. Milk is cooled to 45 degrees or lower immediately after milking, bottled in sterilized bottles, which are then sealed and packed in ice within twenty minutes after milking. The milk is kept packed in ice until delivered at the customer's house.

Certified milk means the best and cleanest raw milk on the market. It is always clean at all stages. It is never a dirty milk which has been processed. It is a natural raw milk, not a cooked milk.

AN ILL-VENTILATED DAIRY BARN.

Medical Society, to certify to the purity and wholesomeness of milk from dairy herds inspected and certified by official inspectors representing the commission.

The commission favors all agencies which aim to give the public a safe and healthful milk supply. It is especially concerned in guaranteeing a limited supply of milk for the use of infants, invalids and convalescents. The commission holds that milk is pure only when it is kept pure at every stage from the time it is duce certified milk. These are tested with tuberculin by U. S. government veterinarians and passed as healthy before the milk is certified by the commission. When any cow in a herd furnishing certified milk is found diseased she must be immediately removed from the farm. All dairy barns must be sanitary in construction, with special regards to light, ventilation, general cleanliness, and an abundant supply of pure running water. All milk is required to have a definite percentage of cream each day.

EXTERIOR OF BARN WHERE CERTIFIED MILK IS PRODUCED.

These barns are clean, light, and well ventilated. They are free from odors and smell sweet and clean. There is running water in every barn. They are swept out and flushed one hour before milking so as to have the barn clean, pure and free from dust at milking time.

The Housewife's Criminal Neglect.

Milk bottle when empty should be thoroughly washed and stored in a clean place, not left standing unwashed besides garbage cans. Bottles left in this condition are extremely dangerous.

Common market milk frequently contains large numbers of germs derived from dirt or filth that get into milk during milking or from dirty milk pails, cows or bottles, and which grow in the milk during its handling and transportation to the customer. Some of these germs or their products cause diarrhea or other intestinal disease. While some produce typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria, tuberculosis and other serious diseases.

Even under the most honest and intelligent supervision some will be present. If, instead of every practicable aseptic precaution, there are dirty stables, food, cows, milkers, utensils and water, the result is a product wholly unfit for the use of any person.

In urging city mothers to use only certified milk the commission makes the following appeal:

"One babe in every six dies as a result of dirty milk. Don't let your baby be the one in six. Help us to stop this heavy mortality by using clean, raw milk—certified milk. This is higher priced to buy but safer and cheaper in the end.

"No case of tuberculosis, no epidemic of scarlet fever, measles or diphtheria has ever been traced to a certified milk farm."

To housewives in general the following suggestions are given by the commission:

"Keep milk and cream cold until it is ready for use. If ice cannot be obecome warm should never be poured back into a bottle of cold milk or cream. Do not leave milk, cream or butter standing around on the kitchen tables. Have a separate quart of milk for the baby. What it does not use, others may have. In mixing the baby's food do not add a warm fluid to the milk until you are ready

INTERIOR OF A VERY UNSANITARY BARN.

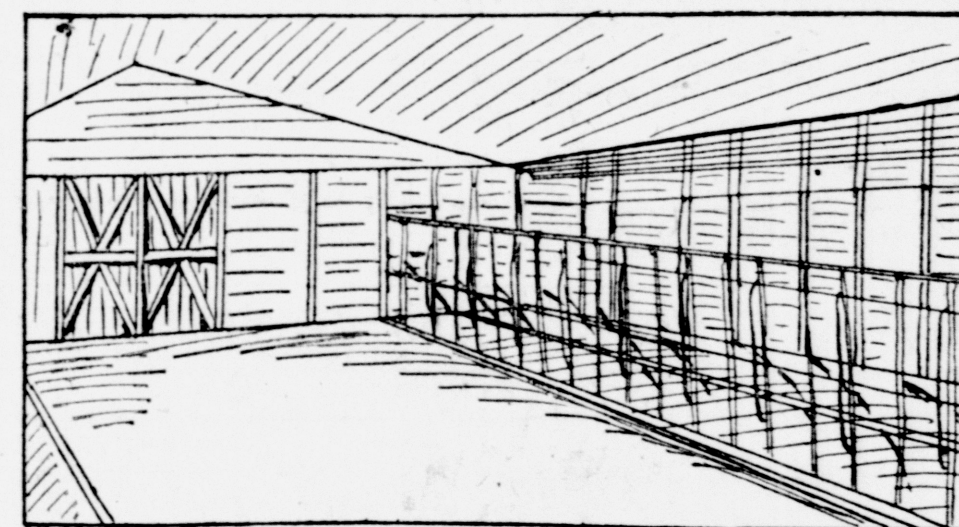

This photograph was taken just after a milking was finished. The place is dark and ill-ventilated. Dust, dirt, and filth abound. This barn is never cleaned except when filth becomes so deep that for his own convenience the farmer has to have more room. Yet here is a place where one of the city's food products is produced, a food used by infants and invalids!

tained, wrap the bottle in a wet cloth and stand it in a dish of water by an open window out of the sun. Evaporation of water will cool milk.

"Keep milk or cream covered until wanted and in the bottle in which it is delivered. In open bowls and pails it will absorb odors and collect flies and dirt. Pour from the bottle only what is needed for immediate use. Milk or cream that has to give it to the baby."

Chicago is not the only large city that is using brains, science and money to benefit its people. All of the more progressive cities have commissions or boards similar in character and purpose. The work is a grand one and deserves the hearty appreciation and co-operation of the entire community in which it is carried on.

INTERIOR OF A BARN PRODUCING CERTIFIED MILK.

Such barns are built to be sanitary. There are few places for dust to collect. There is ample sunlight. The floors, feed troughs, and gutters are made of cement and are flushed twice daily with water. The ceiling is of matched boards and all windows are screened in summer. Every barn has, besides the windows, a ventilating system so that no odors can be transmitted to the milk.

HELPFUL "SPRAYING OUTFIT" SUGGESTIONS.

By H. GARMAN.

The kind of a spraying outfit to get depends entirely on the kind of spraying to be done and the extent of the work proposed. If one has a few rose bushes or tomato plants about a dwelling, or even a few small fruit trees, he can get along with a small hand pump known as a bucket pump. With a little extra hose and a pole, or a bamboo rod, with which to elevate the nozzle, it is possible to spray trees eight or more feet in height with such an outfit. Grape vines can be sprayed very well with a bucket pump, provided there are not many of them. If there are many vines to spray a knapsack sprayer may be best. This is a very convenient outfit for spraying tobacco, potatoes and other low-growing plants, which from the manner of their cultivation, it is not practicable to go among with a team and wagon.

For extensive spraying, it is well to secure a strong pump attached to a barrel or tank that can be hauled about in a cart or wagon. Hand pumps so attached are used for small orchards and other plants grown in a moderate way, but power pumps are necessary for extensive spraying and for that required by tall trees.

A man engaged in fruit growing or potato growing, as a business, ought to have a power sprayer of some sort, either operated by the wheel of the vehicle carrying the outfit, as in the compressed-air sprayers, or by a gasoline motor.

A general purpose spray pump should be made of brass so that it will not be corroded by the copper sulphate used in bordeaux mixture. Nozzles, too, should be made of brass, and ought to be constructed so that they can be quickly cleaned of solid particles that may lodge in the outlet. The pumps will last longer and give better service if washed out with clear water whenever done using them.

Hose should be of the best. For trees it is well to have a sufficient length so that the nozzle can be elevated on the end of a pole among the branches. The precise length will depend upon the size of the trees. For orchard work a length of 10 to 15 feet will serve when the pump is operated from a wagon bed. For shade trees of large size it may be necessary to have 50 feet or more. The hose ought always to be detached, drained and hung up in a cool place after using. A cellar is as good a place as any that is commonly available.

A USEFUL WEED.

A Kentucky tobacco field with "Jimson Weed" planted along the edges to be used in poisoning the tobacco worm moth, with cobalt.

The moths frequent these flowers during the evening twilight and suck the juices found in them. Cobalt solution is made one ounce of cobalt to one pint of sweetened water. A few drops of this solution placed in the newly opened flowers of the Jimson weed each day will destroy the moths as fast as they appear.

Have a purpose and stick to it. We know a Pennsylvania farmer who failed four times to make alfalfa stick, but he finally learned how—no fault of the soil—and he now raises the biggest crops in his county.

The silo will increase the amount of milk that can be produced upon the farm and it will also cut down the cost of production.

It is a mistake to crowd the raspberries. Do not leave over six canes not nearer than four feet with rows about six feet apart.

Sifted ashes make good dusting material for the hens.

lasting anywhere from two to five years.

CATS VS. BIRDS.

The cat is considered the greatest enemy of birds. A lively cat, not overfed, may destroy hundreds of birds each year. Since there are about as many cats in the country as there are men and women, say 90,000,000, the number of birds destroyed by the cat, can easily be estimated. The cat gets in her best work after heavy showers when the birds' feathers are wet, when the bird is not normally active, and when the birds are half grown, in which time the cat climbs a tree and finds the birdlings helpless.

Weeds cut down in their youth never go to seed.

They have trees for blankets in Ecuador, and they like them, too. They are fond of the firm touch of the bark against them as they sleep.

We would probably think they were "zero in covering," and we would doubtless wake up in a much better condition if we slept under a wood covering.

But the native Indians are most enthusiastic, according to J. Jameson, a traveler and lecturer, who has recently returned from those parts.

The blankets are made from the bark of a tree which is cut particularly thin. It is pounded and moistened and then pounded some more and put out into the sun to dry. And a most desirable and economical blanket it is,

MILK GOATS ON THE FARM.

The common milk goat can be kept by the families who cannot afford to keep a cow and as the milk of the goat is highly nutritious it is an excellent substitute for the cow's milk. For children there is nothing better and it is a well known fact that it is almost entirely free from tuberculosis.

But, answering a question of a correspondent as to whether it is profitable to keep common goats on the farm for the milking purposes, we should say that as a general rule it is not.

Goats require the proper feed just the same as other animals if they are expected to give large quantities of milk and unless one lives near a large city where goat's milk can be sold to hospitals and rich private patients of physicians, it cannot be disposed of to advantage.

Common goats are cheap to begin with; they cost little if a small flock is kept on a large farm as they can pick up a pretty fair living by browsing on the place.

On the other hand, the odor from the bucks is intolerable to most people. Goats are difficult to confine within bounds as they will climb fences of almost any height, and their favorite sunning place is the top of the barn roof. Altogether, we should say that the common milk goat is entirely out of place on the average farm. Used to supply milk, for special purposes or by people who are unable to keep a cow, they are more or less valuable.

The city man who pokes fun at his country brother, who patronizes the green goods man, is the steady supporter of the sharks who sell blue sky for bonanza lands for $5 an acre down and a dollar a month for life.

Reduce the feed of the sows for a short time before farrowing, and give them a thin slop for the first two or three feeds after farrowing. Increase the feed as the pigs get older, and the sows need it.

The man who has no use for the opinions of others never has any of his own that other people want.

Too many of us are like the man on the jury who complained that "the eleven other fellows were the most stubborn fellows he ever saw."

Coincidence.

It was five-year-old Harold's first visit to an Episcopal church, and during the sermon he examined the literature in the hymn book rack. A card upon which was printed the church calendar absorbed his interest for awhile, and when he reached "Ash Wednesday," he held it up to his mother, remarking in a loud whisper: "That's the day our ashes are always collected, too!"

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The stock market opened quietly but stocks in general showed slight gains on yesterday's closing.

11 a. m.—There was no great activity at any time during the first hour. The traders sold on the opening advance but as soon as their selling was concluded the previous rise was resumed. It was of short duration, however, and at 11 o'clock the trading was dull. While the traders held that the showers in the corn belt were insufficient, they contended that the prolonged drought might soon be broken.

Noon.—At the end of the second hour the market developed renewed strength, indicating a favorable condition for the bills.

2 p. m.—Leading stocks advanced to new high figures for a short period; trading was very active and then there was a relapse into comparative inactivity.

The stock market closed strong.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—General rains over nearly the entire northern portion of the corn belt caused an early smash in prices today. Indiana, Illinois, Nebraska and Iowa reported relief from drought conditions and the market responded with a drop of 1/2 to 3/4c at the outset.

Word that the southwest had not benefited by the moisture gave the bulls support and further decline was checked in September but December dropped 1/2 c more in the forenoon.

Wheat traders were inclined to follow the action in corn. Prices were off 1/4c at the start and then made further fractional decline.

Oats, too, moved with corn. Prices were down 1/4c at the start and dropped an additional 1/4c in the morning.

Provisions were dull, pork and lard shading slightly higher and ribs tending lower. Hog prices were higher, but this factor was partially offset by the weakness in the feed grains.

Corn turned sharply higher in the afternoon and went to 70 1-2c for September at one stage, closing at 70 1-2c with the market strong for both months.

The bulge in corn had its effect in the wheat and oats pits and options made general advances, closing strong.

Provisions showed firmness in the afternoon with the upward turn in the grain list.

ORGANISTS SCORN "CURLY TAIL" SONGS
ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 7.—"Throw Out The Life Line," and similar old hymns are to be banished from church hymnals if a movement started by the national convention of organists here is pressed, and the organists are successful. The old songs were branded as "curly-tail" "rag time" and "German band hymns" by delegates to the convention.

KLASSEN'S MOVES
The Klassen clothing store which has formerly been located at 322 South Fourth street will be moved in the near future to 322 Pearl street. Since A. McConnell has been managing the store here the business has outgrown its present location. The new store will be larger. A new stock will be put in.

COAST TO OPPOSE COAST FOR TITLE
LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 7.—The national tennis doubles championship, to be played at Newport, R. I., August 18, will be a family affair with two teams of San Franciscans, Maurice E. McLoughlin and Thomas C. Bundy, and Clarence Griffin and John Strachan, competing. Griffin and Strachan, experts declared today, proved themselves worthy opponents of McLoughlin and Bundy in the challenge round for the title, by their comparatively easy victory over the crack eastern doubles pair yesterday at Lake Forest.

WINNIPEG TURNS TABLES ON COLTS

Peggars Take Official Opener from La Crosse by Ten to Four

"MOPPY" ANDERSON GETS TRY-OUT

Local Boy Gets Big Hand when He Goes to Mound After Niedenfeuer Is Chased

Local fans to the number of about 600 turned out at League park yesterday afternoon to see the official opening game of the Northern league season in this city with the Winnipeg club as the opponent. The visiting team was ungrateful to the extent of handing La Crosse a 10 to 4 beating. The Peggars swatted the ball all over the yard and obtained an early lead which put them away in front.

Previous to the game the directors of the local club and the players of both clubs took part in a parade around the business district. Six automobiles conveyed the directors and players around the city and they then drove to the ball park where a good crowd was waiting for Umpire Perry Werden to call "Play Ball."

"Moppy" Gets Ovation
"Moppy" Anderson, the wonderful little pitcher of the Athletics, made his debut in professional baseball in the second round of the game after Niedenfeuer had been driven to cover and the local boy was given a tremendous ovation as he took his place on the slab. The situation was bad, but Moppy worked gamely and retired the side with no more scoring in that round. He was hit rather hard during the rest of the game but his support went back on him to some extent and it was not entirely his fault that he was scored on so often. For his first appearance Anderson did well and he was given a round of applause every time he went out to his position, the crowd being with him all the way.

The locals were baffled by the southpaw curves of Boley, the northerners' left hander, who refused to allow La Crosse to bunch their swats effectively except in the sixth frame when three tallies crossed the pan. All told the locals hit Boley's delivery safely nine times but in only one round did they make any impression on him. During the first four stanzas, La Crosse was retired in order, not anything that looked like a safety being registered and it was not until two were down in the fifth that a local man hit the pill to safe territory.

Winnipeg put up a good game in the field, only one error being made behind Boley but they had no difficult chances. The locals were not quite as steady in the defensive game although they turned two double plays which averted trouble. Grogan made the feature play of the day when with Rafferty on first base in the ninth he leaped high in the air and with one hand speared a liner from Kirkham's bat. Rafferty was easily doubled off first. The other double play was made in the second round, Clothier and Graves being doubled on the latter's grounder to Thomas when Anderson went to the slab.

Caught Off First
Winnipeg threatened to count in the opening frame when with one out Frier poked a grounder between short and third for a single, although Thomas made a great stop. Frier was caught off first by a snafu throw from Niedenfeuer. In the second, however, the visitors went after the local twirler hard and counted twice on four swats. Bachant started it with a single and he went to second on a passed ball. Rafferty pushed a single to center, centering Bachtant, then Kirkham doubled to right, scoring Rafferty. Kirkham tried to get to third on his smash and was thrown out. Clothier hit safely to right and Niedenfeuer was taken out. Anderson made Graves hit to Dreis, forcing Clothier at second and Moppy got the batter at first.

Moppy held the enemy in check for the next two rounds but the locals hadn't made a hit during that time. In the fifth the visitors got after Anderson for four tallies. Clothier led off with a single but Kramer took care of Graves' fly. Then Boley, Wilkes and Frier singled driving in two runs. Ronan was retired. Bachant gave two more a ride home on his single.

With two down in the home fifth Hruska smashed a single through the pitcher's box, the first safety of the game. Kramer came through with a triple to right counting Hruska.

Rally in Sixth
In the sixth the locals made a determined rally. Thomas led the attack with a single with one out Frier poked one safely to right and Safford's two bagger to right scored two runs. Lizette sent another double to the same place and Joe counted. This was all, however, for Boley fanned Hruska.

Although the locals made three hits and filled the bags in the seventh, nothing came of it for two were out and DeRusha sent a fly to Frier for the third out.

Winnipeg counted twice in the seventh on an error, a walk, a wild pitch and two singles and their last brace of tallies came in the eighth on an error, a single, a sacrifice, a two bagger and a base on balls.
